

Figure 2.6. Docility scores over three areas in the study site: house, pan and floodplain. Increased docility score is associated with increased difficulty of handling. Mixed-effects models revealed that Cape ground squirrel docility scores were significantly higher in the house than in the pan and the floodplain.

